

Rights Defender Award” at Tennessee State University.; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Hollands sought to preserve African American history in Nashville and also vigorously worked to protect and care for the Edgehill neighborhood, where he grew up. He was also part of the effort to save the Morris building and worked on saving Woolworth’s and the homes of local civil rights figures like Z. Alexander Looby; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Hollands was also a presiding officer for ONE -- Organized Neighbors of Edgehill -- whose goal was to provide scholarships, housing and address community needs that made it a safe place to live and work. He also served as a commissioner on the Metro Human Relations Commission; and

WHEREAS, he also attended New York University’s Graduate School of Business and Vanderbilt University’s Engineering Management Program. His professional history included work as a research physicist for Celanese Corporation, in corporate management with AT&T, business development with ICBO New York, assistant director at MEDCO, business manager and adjunct professor at American Baptist College, assistant director of the Office of Minority Business Enterprise of Tennessee’s Department of Economic and Community Development, and information systems manager with TennCare; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Hollands received a key to the city of Nashville in 2021 as a Civil Rights Hero, present by Mayor John Cooper at the first John Lewis celebration; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Hollands passed away on December 17, 2023. He is survived by his children Kisha Turner, Konya Williams, and King Hollands, along with ten grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Hollands will be remembered as a Civil Rights icon who continuously labored to make Nashville and Davidson County a better place to live for all.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE METROPOLITAN GOVERNMENT OF NASHVILLE AND DAVIDSON COUNTY:

Section 1. That the Metropolitan County Council hereby goes on record as honoring the life of Civil Rights leader King Hollands.

Section 2. This Resolution shall take effect from and after its adoption, the welfare of The Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson County requiring it.