Analysis

This ordinance amends Section 17.12.040 of the Metropolitan Code to allow awnings, patio covers, and canopies that encroach into required setbacks to have supports other than the wall from which they project and to allow front porches to extend six feet into required street setbacks under certain conditions.

Currently, awnings, patio covers, and canopies that project into required setbacks by no more than six feet are required to have no other structural supports than those provided by the wall to which they are attached. The proposed ordinance would allow canopies that extend no more than six feet into a required setback to have independent structural supports, which will increase the types of projecting covers that can be used.

Covered front porches are considered in the zoning code to be a part of the principal structure and are currently not permitted in the required street setback. The proposed ordinance would allow covered front porches to extend up to six feet into the required street setback if the following conditions are met:

- The porch shall not be enclosed.
- There shall be no enclosed space above the porch.
- The porch shall be located at least ten feet from the right-of-way.

The Planning Commission recommended approval of this ordinance with a substitute at their December 14, 2023, meeting.
